

INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF
INDOOR AIR QUALITY
AND CLIMATE

indoor ENVIRONMENTS

Elsevier and the International Society of Indoor Air Quality and Climate (ISIAQ) are proud to introduce Indoor Environments, a new international, multi-disciplinary research journal dedicated to advancing the field of indoor environmental sciences. This journal will serve as a vital platform for researchers, scholars, and professionals interested in all aspects of indoor environments, including health, comfort, and climate change adaptation and mitigation.

SCAN THE QR CODE TO FIND OUT MORE

Editor-in-Chief:

Yuguo Li, PhD

*Chair Professor of Building Environment
Department of Mechanical Engineering and Faculty of Architecture, The University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong*

Key topic areas:

- Source characterization, monitoring, prediction, and evaluation of physical, chemical, and biological pollutants
- Ventilation, air cleaning and other novel control methods
- Exposure, health effects, and epidemiology
- Climate, sustainability, and environmental impacts
- Thermal comfort and heat-resilient indoor environment
- Transmission of pathogens
- Acoustics and lighting
- Novel research methods.

What you can expect from us:

Publish for FREE

The Article Publishing Charge (APC) fee of USD1800 is waived for articles received and accepted before 30 June 2024.

Trust & Quality

High-quality peer review and expert Editors.

High Visibility of Your Work

Discoverable on ScienceDirect and will be indexed in the databases important to your field.

ELSEVIER

elsevier.com/locate/indenv